UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT Hollis A. Moore Jr. stepped out for a breath of fresh air yesterday afternoon, when a bomb threat caused the building to be cleared and searched.

Nasser choice under arrest

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - President Gamal Abdel Nasser named his successor shortly before he died, but his nominee is under house arrest because he is unacceptable to the Soviet Union, reliable diplomatic informants reported yesterday.

The sources said Nasser's deathbed choice to lead Egypt was Zakaria Mohieddin, a relatively liberal former prime minister who at times embarrassed his chief by opposing the growing Soviet penetration of Egypt.

Nasser reportedly expressed his last wish to Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, one of his closest friends, who was at his bedside when the president died of heart failure Sept. 28. The information reached the foreign diplomats from some of Heikal's associates.

The Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party, nominated Vice President Anwar Sadat to succeed Nasser, and he will be elected tomorrow in a nationwide referendum in which he is the only candidate.

But there are indications a power struggle is continuing behind the scenes, with Heikal's own position threatened because he insisted that Nasser's preference for Mohieddin be honored.

The diplomats said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, when he came to Cairo for Nasser's funeral, told the Egyptian leaders the Soviet government would have no confidence in a government headed by Mohieddin.

The Russians are believed to favor Air Marshal Ali Sabry, a prominent figure in the reported power struggle and an old rival of Mohieddin. They both served as prime minister and also as vice president.

Mohieddin was in the inner circle of Nasser's 1952 revolution against King Farouk. Nasser publicly designated him to succeed to the presidency when he announced his resignation in the first hours of defeat in June 1967. Nasser later withdrew his resignation under popular pressure, and Mohieddin faded into the background.

Meanwhile, in Washington yesterday, a top Army general said a large international force "with military muscle" may be required to police a negotiated settlement in the Middle East.

Lt. Gen. Richard G. Stilwell, the Army's deputy chief for operations, indicated such a force should be under the United Nations.

Speaking before the Association of the United States Army, Stilwell said:

"Realistically, the longstanding emotionally deep hostility which lies at the root of the Arab-Israeli conflict may dictate some type of international presence in the Mideast to assure compliance with the provisions of any negotiated settlement."

The United Nations, Stilwell said, "provides the most obvious option."

However, the three-star general voiced the opinion that a small observer force, such as that stationed by the United Nations on Cyprus would appear inadequate for the Middle East task.

"To enforce fully a political settlement, a large force with military muscle—perhaps of multidivision size—might be required," Stilwell said.

The general indicated to a reporter later he would expect the United States to contribute troops to such a force, if it were created.

"The basic challenge will be to insure that any peacekeeping operation truly brings an end to military conflict in this tormented area and that the possibility of any confrontation between the super-powers is avoided," Stilwell said.

Search finds no explosives

Bomb call clears tower

Workers in the Administration Bldg., from President Hollis A. Moore, Jr., to the maintenance crew, got off work early yesterday.

At approximately 3:24 p.m. a caller telephoned the Admissions Office, and informed personnel that a bomb was planted in the building.

The caller identified himself only as a member of the Weathermen, a militant element of the SDS.

According to F. Eugene Beatty, director of buildings and facilities, no reason was given for the call, and no time was set for an explosion.

The building - jammed with office workers and students—was completely evacuated within 15 minutes, Campus Security Chief Donald Young told the News. A subsequent search failed to reveal any evidence of explosives.

While eight campus security officers conducted the search, displaced workers huddled around in small groups, sheltered from a steady drizzle by umbrellas and newspapers.

Among them was President Moore. He refused to comment on the incident, except to say, "It surely wasn't done by anyone who wanted a day off for golf."

He ordered the area sealed until 4:45 p.m., when workers were allowed to return to the structure to retrieve any items they might need before returning home.

President Moore said that no alarm was sounded, and the evacuation was done quietly, with a minimum of excitement.

The building was apparently cleared by word-of-mouth from door-to-door.

Although he hadn't had an opportunity to evaluate the procedures, Security Director James Sadoris indicated that the evacuation and search appeared to have been conducted quite smoothly.

Take a whiff—it's springtime

If you've been around this campus much over a week, you can probably guess where Poe ditch and the sewage plant are located.

They give themselves away every time the wind and weather are right.

The whole problem of sewage disposal for the university and the city poses some problems that will be a challenge for the community to solve in the next few years.

Last week, the administration decided that the area near the sewage plant, and especially the area eight-tenths of a mile roughly east of it, is unsuitable for certain construction projects. This includes in particular the proposed Greek Village.

The reasons include more than the fumes associated with the area.

The general design of the plant includes a spraying system for the wastes.

It has been discovered and made known to the administration that in this spraying process, micro-organisms are released into the air that may induce mild disease to those in the immediate area who have not been in contact with them before.

"The people working regularly in that area develop a resistance to anything that may be floating around, and consequently are immune," said Dr. Karl Schurr, associate professor of biology.

He added that a problem could develop, however, if residence units were built in that area because students could contract a form of disease if they haven't been in contact with it where they lived previously.

Expansion plans for the University once called for construction in the area by the plant, but Dr. B. D. Owens, vice president of research and financial affairs, said nothing would go up there until the problems of the plant are solved.

The plant is a city facility, and the University is not directly responsible for its improvement. No one can deny, however, that the University has a huge stake in the improvement of the city waste disposal system.

The city storm drain system empties into the plant, and in periods of heavy rain, the system is overloaded and raw sewage pours into Poe ditch. The result is a familiar odor.

Stanley Bortel, chairman of the Board of Public Affairs for the city, said existing problems of the plant and alternative solutions are being studied.

The plant was last remodeled in 1959, according to Bortel, and it was projected that the plant would be of sufficient capacity for the community until 1980.

"But due to the fantastic growth of the University and the city, the plant has become obsolete a lot faster than we expected," Bortel said.

He admitted that the plant is now operating at full capacity, but any improvements mean a lot of money and a minimum of four to five years delay before changes can be made.

"Improvements in the city's system will be expensive," Bortel said, "but with a university of this size, we hope to get some state and federal funds for whatever changes we make."

Possible alternatives for improving the sewage situation include relocation of the whole plant, the building of another plant to operate with the existing facility, or the expansion of the old plant.

"Until several studies are completed and considered in about six months, we don't really know what we'll do," said Bortel.

Concerning the possible health hazard of the present system, Bortel said he knew of no record of epidemics being created near similarly designed sewage plants.

Nation tightens office security

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government tightened security at federal buildings and offices throughout the nation yesterday after a series of terrorist bombings.

A spokesman for the General Services Administration, manager of federal civilian installations, said he did not know whether the alert was prompted by any secret information that might warn of further attacks; nor did he know how long the alert might last.

The GSA placed guards on patrol

Democrats sue for recovery of state funds

COLUMBUS (AP) - State Democratic Chairman Eugene P. O'Grady sued yesterday to recover $4 million he claims was loaned illegally by the state treasurer's office.

He filed the action in Franklin County Common Pleas Court as a taxpayer but said he was acting on instructions from the state Democratic party.

"I presume if there was a change in the Republican administration the attorney general would follow through," he added. "If not, we will continue through on our own."

outside federal buildings and in parking areas; locked all but the main entrances; and began denying entrance to persons carrying "suspicious packages" unless they permitted inspection of the parcels.

A spokesman said General Services Administrator Robert L. Kunzig ordered the security alert late Monday night and it was placed in effect yesterday.

He said the GSA had been studying security problems "for some time" because of bombings against both government and nongovernment buildings. A federal office building in Rochester, N.Y., was hit Monday.

The alert means more activity and longer hours for the 3,582 uniformed GSA guards who patrol 266 federally owned buildings and 104 other buildings or offices leased by the government throughout the nation.

But the government also leases another 7,321 premises which are not protected by GSA guards—including 2,200 of the nation's 4,087 local draft boards.

Security at such locations, the GSA spokesman said, "is usually up to the owner."

Many agencies, however, have security "wardens" employees with security responsibilities in emergency situations.

The GSA has alerted such agencies to step up their warden activities, and it has contacted other federal and local law enforcement agencies.

a plea for action

Ohio Attorney General Paul W. Brown initiated a plea for Supreme Court action against chemical firms allegedly polluting Lake Erie some time ago.

Monday, the court agreed to consider complaints by the state that certain companies are contributing to the pollution of the lake with poisonous mercury compounds.

The companies in question, Dow Chemical Co. and Wyandotte Chemicals Corps. have informed the court that they have already begun programs for the elimination of pollutants being discharged into the lake.

But even if what they claim is true a court hearing is still necessary and long over-due.

The state attorney general has also asked the court to insure that the companies deemed responsible not only stop polluting, but also bear the major portion of the cost for cleaning up the lake.

And this is as it should be.

A Supreme Court hearing should determine once and for all where the blame should fall. The bulk of the cost for repairing the damage should then also fall on the responsible companies. It should not be an added burden on the taxpayers.

Lake Erie may be dying, but it is not dead yet.

Supreme Court consideration of the problem may be the first positive step in the direction of attempting to save our closest "freshwater" lake.

new council plan

Talking about a proposed community council has been in vogue for nearly a year now.

Monday night, Student Council finally got it together and agreed on a proposal for the establishment of a community council at the University.

Student Council is finished as far as being a workable means of governance. A community council may eventually prove to be just as ineffective, but as an effort for improvement, it deserves student support.

The President's Advisory Council (PAC) will meet Thursday. At the meeting, Roger Coate, student body president plans to present the community council proposal.

Council has asked that students attend this meeting to show their support-or at least concern.

In order to be reserved a seat, you must call the President's office today.

The community council is structured to give a more valid representation of students in their governing body. Student Council just doesn't work.

Call the President's office today.

private drab's peace plan

by Arthur Hoppe
National Columnist

"Hi, out there!" Private Oliver Drab, 378-184454, shouted over the sand-bagged parapet. "I want you to know I've ceased."

"You've ceased what, Drab?" inquired Captain Buck Ace politely, tapping his boot with his swagger stick.

"I've ceased firing, sir," explained Private Drab. "I feel that in these critical times it's the duty of every American to support his or her President. Don't worry, sir, the President can count on me."

"The President, soldier," said the Captain, scowling, "is counting on you for one thing - to zap the enemy and zap him good."

"Oh, no, sir, haven't you heard? The President's finally unveiled the secret peace plan he promised to unveil right after the '68 elections. And it sure was worth waiting for. It's the best peace plan in years and years. He wants me to cease firing, stand still and gradually withdraw myself. I don't know why somebody didn't think of it before."

"You been smoking that Saigon pot, Private?"

"Oh, no, sir. I'm just following the President's wishes. First I ceased fire, then I stood still and now, sir, I'll gradually withdraw," said Private Drab, edging toward the supply road. "So long, Captain, it's been a great war and..."

"Damn it, Drab, get your rifle butt back on the firing line!"

"But the President, sir..."

"Look here, soldier, the President doesn't want you to cease firing. He wants the enemy to cease firing."

"Oh, that's exactly what I want, too, sir," cried Private Drab enthusiastically. "Frankly, I've got nothing against firing at him. It doesn't bother me at all. It's him firing at me that counts. You know this thing I've got about not wanting to get killed... And I'll bet he feels pretty much the same. So..."

"Oh, shut up, Drab. You'll cease firing when he ceases firing and not a minute before."

"Oh, I don't mind being first, sir. I mean if the President wants peace so bad, what am I shooting at him for anyway?"

"Your job, soldier, is to zap the enemy and keep zapping him until he agrees to a cease fire."

"You mean I'm shooting at him to make him stop shooting at me? Gosh, sir, that doesn't make much sense. If I had my choice..."

"You can have your choice, Drab," said the Captain coldly. "Ten hours on the firing line or ten years in Leavenworth."

"Well, it still seems to me like somebody's got to stop firing first," Private Drab said that night to his friend Corporal Bartz as they crouched in a rain-filled foxhole. "Everybody ought to see that."

"Oh, they do, Oliver," said Corporal Bartz, ducking as a machinegun burst whistled overhead. "They even agree on who ought to stop first."

"Who's that?"

The Corporal pulled a pin with his teeth and heaved a grenade out into the darkness. "The other side," he said.

news letters

please don't step on me

You don't know me, Dick. In fact, it wasn't until I read about your death in Friday's paper that I first knew you. Your dedication to ecology impressed me, your physical synthesis with the grass roots of the earth amazed me.

But it was your dying words that caused me to write this eulogy as a memorial of your martyrdom: "Please...don't step on me...please."

Those words spoke to me; I was probably one of those students you saw avoiding the sidewalks to trample your beloved grass. And my inner sense of guilt tells me that I trampled, also, on the essence of your soul.

I want to apologize, Dick, for my crime-but let me first defend myself a bit. I, too, love your grass, Dick. It's luxuriance and emerald softness draws me away from those concrete pathways. I want and love the freedom that I feel when I run through the grassy lots and green fields.

There may be many "Lindys" who cannot appreciate or value Nature and turn their backs on her problems, but I pray I am not one. It's just that I thrill to be in the midst of her trees, grass and sky.

If I have to follow the rigid, cold paths of cement, I feel just like one human sheep following another. It's when I make my own trail, without restrictions or corners, that I'm really me, and really happy!

But your words echo to me-and I know I can't have my grass and walk on it too. I'm going to have to restrain my impulses so that others can enjoy the beauty of the turf, too.

When I see the green lawn and am tempted, I shall remember your plea. But if one day you see me dart off the sidewalks for a moment, just to bathe my feet in the green softness, please forgive me. I love the grass, but I really don't want to hurt it. You see, Dick, the earth is my mother, too.

more on the march

By Ronald Doughty
Student Columnist

Having just finished reading Dwight Decker's letter in Wednesday's B.G. News concerning the March for Victory, I have become sick with disgust and contempt. The charges and implications that not only Mr. Decker but other opinionated writers as well as the B.G. News level are in themselves appalling.

It seems that since the communists within our country could not stop the patriotic March, the next best thing was to slander it and shame its leaders.

Even before the thing got off the ground and was still in the planning stages, the Youth International Party promised that neither the March nor Ky's appearance would occur. Although Y.I.P. succeeded in stopping Ky to speak along with the blessings of the establishment's leftists, the march could not be coerced or pressured to cancellation.

But they did attempt to disrupt the Victory Rally through violent force. As a Victory Marcher in Washington, I watched mobs of leftists try to break up the center of the rally only to be answered by swinging billy-clubs of the D.C. police and conservatives attempting to protect their children from rocks, sticks and bottles being thrown at them.

An old man was thrown to the ground and four Weatherman-types equipped with leather boots and shock helmets, beat him while he screamed in pain, because he did not believe in the same things they did. I was personally maced while brave yuppies took turns hitting me while I was blinded.

A D.C. policeman was knocked to the ground as two leftists beat him with sticks only to be rescued by some of his comrades before every bone in his body was broken. Viet Cong flags appeared everywhere and the only American flag to be seen among the revolutionaries was waving shamefully upside down.

What I saw and experienced at that march demonstrated to me that the leftist extremists in this country no longer want peaceful solutions, if they ever did, and now seek to destroy all who oppose their plans of communistic oppression.

However the establishment press, controlled by the big money benefactors who give millions annually to SDS-type organizations, refused to comment on these acts of violence and cruelty committed by the revolutionaries.

What they did mention was interesting, of which Mr. Decker attempted to utilize in his slanderous letter-the mere mention of the term National Socialist Party or bluntly, Nazi.

Wow, how obvious can such a defamation be! Of course the fact is not mentioned that the Nazis were also at Bob Hope's rally back in July and have been at every anti-Vietnam march that has ever been held in Washington D.C.

The leftist establishment (the B.G. News not included) proclaimed over and over that the presence of 12 uniformed Nazis constituted a condemnation of the Victory March and another vicious slander.

Bob Hope was not slandered and the Nazis were there. The Yuppies were not slandered and the Nazis were there. And it did not make any difference that Carl McIntyre, the organizer, violently condemned them and told his parade marshals to throw the Nazis out of the march if they should try to infiltrate it's ranks.

No-it did not make any difference because the establishment was trying to brand McIntyre and his supporters as anti-Semitic. Mr. Decker constantly implies that anti-Semitism was prevalent among the people of the March-this was not so. Dr. McIntyre himself proclaimed support of the Israeli people and foresaw the death of Israel as a triumph of godless communism.

The Marchers felt complete sympathy for the Jews and it was not as the media would have you believe-a rally of Jew-haters. It is the establishment itself who is supporting the anti-Semites-the Weathermen, the Black Panthers and the SDSers.

Other criticisms centered around the religious nature of the March especially a protest by the B.G. News that the demonstration should have contained non-religious speakers and promoters.

However one cannot expect a devout Christian to separate his faith from his political views, for Christianity cannot be apart from temporal affairs. Those who level such charges are in themselves anti-Christian and would love to see the end of Christianity in this nation-for Christianity has long been the driving force behind much conservative thinking and ideals in America.

It is obvious that before atheistic communism can conquer the United States, Christianity as a religion must be effectively neutralized. So when such anti-Christian sentiments are made, one must realize that the leftists behind such accusations are trying to destroy the only bulwark the American people have against totalitarian communism.

The establishment successfully blackmailed Vice-President Ky from speaking at Washington because such a figure would lend support to the rightwing in this country and would seriously threaten the leftist subversion of Nixon's "unilateral withdrawal" programs.

Even attempts to bring Mrs. Ky here also failed. Ky himself repudiated the Nixon administration for such pressures, but being without substantial power had to capitulate.

It is surprising that many revolutionaries will protest that the demagogue Kunstler was pressured not to speak at our college, (a charge Kunstler himself appears unable to substantiate), while the vice-president of one of our closest allies and a nation and people we have committed ourselves to is told by Sec. of State Rogers to forget the March-lest you wish to see some pretty heavy repercussions.

Those who marched with me in Washington came because they felt our country is committing treason against the people of South Vietnam and the American nation as a result of Nixon's policy of surrender in Southeast Asia.

The notes echoed by Congressmen Rarick and the evangelist Billy Harkis preached that communism must be destroyed externally as well as internally. It is time to clean house. Before any successful conclusion to the Indo-China war can be obtained, the establishment in this country has got to be overthrown and patriotic and God-fearing men substituted in its place.

The press has already destroyed what little we had to celebrate, that is after the establishment was through with Ky. Now it is time for the American people to destroy that press which is dedicated to the destruction of our American freedoms.

The leftist extremists in our government, in our colleges and in our media must be crushed. Until this subversion and treason is brought to a halt, as Dr. McIntyre realizes, there can be no victory over communism in Vietnam. Our first battle is here-on the campus, in Washington and at the establishment.

'NOW WE WAIT FOR THEIR SECOND RESPONSE...'

U.S. plans troop cutback

SAIGON (AP) - The U.S. Command began mapping plans yesterday for a new 40,000-man troop cutback announced by President Nixon despite reports of a North Vietnamese buildup in Laos.

The U.S. Strategic Air Command sent its entire active Pacific fleet of B52 bombers over Laos for the fifth consecutive day in efforts to check a North Vietnamese supply push down the Ho Chi Minh trail to Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Nixon announced Monday in Hartford, Conn., that the authorized American troop level in Vietnam would be reduced to 344,000 by Dec. 31. Under plans previously announced, this is to drop another 60,000 men to 284,000 by next May 1.

Peak American strength in Vietnam was 543,400 in April 1969, and the total is now less than 384,000. Nixon's withdrawal program began in June 1969.

Sources in Saigon said some American units are already positioned for withdrawal from the battlefield. The next units to leave Vietnam are expected to include the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, the 25th Infantry Division and the 1st and 5th Regiments of the 1st Marine Division. The 7th Marine Regiment of the 1st Division already has been withdrawn.

In the war, about 30 of the giant B52 bombers pounded the Ho Chi Minh trail. There have been no B52 raids flown in South Vietnam since last Saturday and none in Cambodia since last Thursday.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird told a news conference in Washington Monday that there is some evidence the North Vietnamese are attempting to resupply their positions in the Laotian border area.

Sources in Saigon have said Hanoi has begun its yearly "dry-season" push of war materials down the trail to fuel offensives in both Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command reported that 38 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed in two engagements in Quang Ngai Province, in the coastal lowlands. U.S. casualties were three killed and seven wounded.

A delayed report from South Vietnamese headquarters said four civilians were killed and one wounded in a Viet Cong rocket attack on Da Nang air base early Monday.

In Cambodia, the war slipped into one of its periodic lulls. A Cambodian communiqué reported only one harassing attack during the past 24 hours.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon announced that Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker will return to Washington early next week for consultations, touching off speculation that he will be replaced as ambassador by William H. Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for the Far East and the Pacific and former ambassador to Laos. Embassy spokesmen indicated Bunker's trip was in connection with the new American peace proposals and that he would be away "three or four weeks."

Other sources in Saigon said Ky would attend the Paris peace talks on Oct. 29.

Canada, China establish new diplomatic relations

OTTAWA (AP) - Canada and Red China have reached an agreement to establish diplomatic relations, Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp announced yesterday.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Sharp said Canada recognizes the government in Peking as the sole legal government of China.

Up to now, Canada-like the United States and other nations-recognized the Nationalist Chinese government in Formosa as the legal Chinese government.

Canada and the Peking Chinese have been negotiating the agreement for 20 months in Stockholm, Sweden.

Ambassador Yu-chu Hsueh of Nationalist China said his goodbyes at Ottawa airport. He had planned to leave Canada before the government's announcement but his flight was delayed. He said he was distressed by Canada's decision.

About 100 members of Ottawa's Chinese community, many carrying Chinese Nationalist flags, were at the airport to say goodbye. Hsueh was the fourth Chinese Nationalist ambassador to Ottawa since 1946.

A simultaneous announcement was made in Peking and broadcast by the official New China News Agency.

The broadcast said that on the touchy problem of Formosa, also called Taiwan, Communist China said it "reaffirms that Taiwan is an inalienable part" of its territory and "the Canadian government takes note of this position."

Metz explains connections with social science school

COLUMBUS (A P) - A composed Howard Metzbaum yesterday explained how he became involved with the Ohio School of Social Sciences and apologized to a radio newsmen he yelled at angrily Monday.

Metzbaum, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, said the school was established in 1944 to bring union and businessmen together to improve labor-management relations.

He said the school existed only 18 months and that he wrote the U.S. Attorney General when he learned it had been labeled "an adjunct of the Communist party."

"I yield to no man living in my loyalty to my government," Metzbaum said. "I believe the system works and works well."

Metzbaum, at a news conference, supplied copies of letters he wrote the attorney general and one he received from Assistant Atty. Gen. Peyton Ford in 1948.

In his letter, he said the school, of which he was incorporator and one of 17 trustees, offered no courses he could determine as subversive although it did teach a course in "elementary Russian."

Ford, in his reply, said the reason for calling the school "an adjunct of the Communist party" was based on confidential files and could not be released.

He said Atty. Gen. Tom Clark, in transmitting the school's name to the Loyalty Review Board, "cautioned that it is entirely possible that many persons belonging to such organizations may be loyal to the United States."

Metzbaum said trustees of the school included prominent Cleveland citizens. Among them was W. O. Walker, now director of industrial relations in the cabinet of Gov. James Rhodes.

Metzbaum yelled "smear" and "lie" Monday when Newsman Martin Petree of Columbus radio station WMNI attempted to question him about the school.

"I must tell you, I became angry," Metzbaum said today. "Very angry. I resent the use of name-calling. . . I guess the use of the word 'communist' touched me off."

Petree said he felt Metzbaum owed him an apology. "I felt I asked you a legitimate question. I feel you could have saved us a lot of grief by answering it then," he added.

"I agree," replied Metzbaum. "I think that is correct."

Petree began the Monday questioning by asking if Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Metzbaum's Nov. 3 opponent, possibly "has a dossier on your past activities beginning in 1944 and possibly extending through 1949 with known communist connections. . ."

It was at this point that Metzbaum, who was at the time opening his Franklin County headquarters, broke in angrily:

"He didn't say that and you can't say that sir. You better apologize for that statement publicly. . ."

Metzbaum today said he did owe Petree an explanation.

General supports volunteer army

WASHINGTON (A P) - Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who has been cool to the Nixon administration's plan for an all-volunteer Army, yesterday pledged to expend every effort to achieve such a force.

But the Army Chief of Staff warned the American people that "even money will not do the job" of switching from a draft-based Army to an all-volunteer force unless the country rallies in full support and critics stop downgrading the Army.

"We cannot attract the kind of soldier we need into an organization denigrated by some, directly attacked by others, and half-heartedly supported by many," Westmoreland said.

"This country cannot have it both ways."

The Army's top general chose the convention of the Association of the United States Army to voice his commitment to an "all-out effort in working toward a zero draft - a volunteer force."

This "all-out" phrase was used Monday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird in disclosing he had ordered the Armed Services to take immediate steps in preparation for ending reliance on the draft by mid-1973.

In a prepared speech for the Army Association, Westmoreland outlined a number of steps already taken to make Army life more attractive to young men, including orders aimed at eliminating "make work" practices in training.

"We are reviewing all our policies and administrative procedures. Nothing is considered sacrosanct except where military order and discipline . . . are jeopardized. In this, we cannot and will not yield."

However, the former U.S. commander in Vietnam acknowledged that young men who are or will become soldiers and junior officers have attitudes differing from older officers and non-commissioned officers.

"Their values and attitudes need not necessarily be endorsed by Army leadership, yet we must recognize that they do exist."

The Army chief stressed that "we are still fighting a war" and that "for the near future we will continue to depend on the draft for most of our replacements."

"And . . . even though we reach a zero draft, selective service legislation should remain in force as national insurance."

Discussing the Army's problems in moving toward an all-volunteer force, Westmoreland said, "We must double or triple our enlistments and re-enlistments."

Dr. Ross lists appointments to advisory English council

Dr. Robert H. Ross, chairman of the English department, has announced that a graduate student and an undergraduate student have been appointed to the department's Central Advisory Committee (CAC).

Dr. Ross, who assumed his duties this fall, said that the graduate student was appointed to the committee last spring, while the undergraduate was appointed this fall by departmental action.

The CAC consists of Dr. Ross, four members of the English faculty elected at large, one graduate student and one undergraduate student.

"The Central Advisory Committee is the most important body in the English department," Dr. Ross said.

Functions of the CAC include the advising of the department chairman on matters of budget, curriculum and new faculty members.

The CAC also appoints committees to study various aspects of the department, Dr. Ross said.

The department wants to have future student members of the CAC elected and is working through the office of Roger Coate, student body president, to set up the elections, Dr. Ross said.

Biology prof cites birth control value

With the intent to enlighten many girls who "don't know beans about this," Dr. Karl Schurr, associate professor of biology, told the residents of Ashley Hall Monday night about the relative merits of birth control methods.

He said the rhythm method was almost impossible to use effectively because of the inconsistency of the individual woman, although some couples have achieved some degree of success with it.

The methods he considered reliable included the use of diaphragms, cervical caps, spermicidal jelly and the pill, but he advised that these methods be used only under a doctor's care. "Ohio should have an abortion law," he said, predicting that voluntary abortion would be available in all states within seven or eight years. "No woman should have to have an unwanted child," he emphasized.

Dr. Schurr said his main goal is zero population growth, and that it's necessary to educate the people on birth control methods to ease the population pinch.

If the population explosion is not checked quickly, he said, our generation will be responsible for increased human misery in the entire world.

Code, '1219' summaries ready for distribution

Copies of the new Student Code, as well as summaries of the controversial "Campus Riot Act" (House Bill 1219) will be available to students beginning today.

According to Greg Thatch, student affairs fellow, copies will be distributed to each student in residence halls. Off-campus students and other interested persons may obtain copies from the Student Activities Office, 405 Student Services; the Dean of Students Office, 450 Student Services; the Vice President of Student Affairs Office, 238 Administration Bldg., and the Commuter Center, located in the basement of Moseley Hall.

At the end of the week, Thatch added, copies will be available at the Union information desk, from the Student Housing Association, and in The BG News boxes.

UN guard walkout threatens security of world leaders

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - An undeclared strike by members of the U.N. guard force aroused concern yesterday for the safety of world leaders arriving for the 25th anniversary of the United Nations.

Sixty-nine of the 230 guards at U.N. headquarters called in sick Monday to back up demands for more pay and more favorable promotion procedures.

Secretary-General U Thant was reported "very much concerned" over the work boycott because of the impending arrival of some 45 chiefs of state or government for the birthday ceremonies starting Wednesday.

The shortage of guards was felt acutely Monday as more than 400 persons demonstrating against Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro surged against New York police lines guarding the entrance to the U.N. secretariat.

Several demonstrators broke through the police cordon, got onto the U.N. grounds and tore down the Cuban flag.

U.N. officials said maintenance men trained in security procedures would be used to beef up the guard force if necessary, as they were in 1960.

The U.N. building will be closed to the public for the next two weeks to lessen the danger. Traffic will be diverted from First Avenue along the U.N. grounds, and police launches will patrol the East River on the other side of the headquarters.

Hits desegregation assignments

Black lashes out at lawyer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Justice Hugo L. Black, long a foe of racial discrimination, lashed out angrily yesterday at a civil rights lawyer and accused him of "trying to rearrange the whole country" to achieve school integration. "From the first case," Black told a hushed Supreme Court hearing room, "I have been interested in plain discrimination on account of race. We should correct that. But it disturbs me to hear we should try to change the whole lives of people around the country."

Defense ousts officer on My Lai jury panel

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) - The defense used its one peremptory challenge yesterday to remove the senior officer on the jury panel for My Lai defendant S. Sgt. David Mitchell.

The challenge forced the court to resume the jury selection because it reduced the number of officers on the court to four, one below the minimum required for a general courtmartial. The four remaining officers are two captains and two first lieutenants.

Rejected was Col. Richard G. Trefry, 46, a West Point graduate with extensive experience on courts-martial. Chief defense lawyer Ossie Brown of Baton Rouge, La., attempted to get Trefry removed "for cause," citing his nomination by the staff judge advocate to the division commander for service on the court-martial panel.

Brown successfully challenged another colonel on the same grounds last week. But Trefry told the court today: "In my wildest dreams James M. Nabrit III, an attorney for the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, who was arguing against North Carolina state law that forbids compulsory assignment of school children on a racial basis to achieve desegregation.

"You want to haul people miles and miles to give them equal percentages in the schools," Black told Nabrit.

"I think there is something to the concept of the neighborhood schools," Black said.

He called the practice of neighborhood schools good, and said he did not like "this trying to condemn it."

The outburst followed an assertion by Nabrit that "this neighborhood school concept is really a fiction." The Negro attorney said U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan of Charlotte had found that the government and the state were by administrative action fostering segregation of neighborhoods and therefore the segregation of schools.

Earlier in the day's hearing, the court was urged by North Carolina to uphold the neighborhood school concept, and to forbid government-ordered racial assignment of children to distant schools.

"We contend the only realistic plan that will work for the North and the South, the only real approach, is to allow a child to attend the school nearest his home," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Andrew A. Vanore Jr., of North Carolina.

Senate verdict alters equal rights proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate modified yesterday a proposed constitutional amendment on equal rights. The change would make it clear that women would be exempt from the draft.

Backers of the proposed amendment who had sought to prevent any change in it at all, predicted the unexpected 36 to 33 vote would kill the whole proposal.

"It is never going to see the light of day," declared Sen. Birch Bayh, (D-Ind.), chief sponsor of what is frequently referred to as the "women's lib" amendment.

"In my opinion, any amendment would kill it," Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said before the session began.

Approved was an amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., (D-N.C.) spokesman for a group of opponents that included Southerners, Republicans and such liberal Democrats as Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. The Ervin amendment actually makes two other important changes in the five-line proposal passed by the House overwhelmingly last summer.

It also would make the amendment effective two years after ratification by three-fourths of the states and would nullify it altogether if such ratification was not completed within seven years.

BEHIND THE BUCK'S BENCH are part of the large crowd which filled Anderson Arena to near capacity for Sunday night's NBA exhibition game between Milwaukee, and the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Newsphotos by Jock O'Brezo

WHY IS Milwaukee Bucks coach Larry Costello looking so forlorn? Cleveland Cavalier skipper, Bill Fitch, seems taken back by his sullen colleague. Meanwhile Al

Hairston (10), former Falcon guard, gets together with one of his old teammates, Joe Henderson, and current BG player Rich Walker.

OSCAR ROBERTSON shows the style of foul shooting which has helped make the "Big O" the NBA star he is today. Having joined the Milwaukee Bucks this year, perhaps his new uniform number indicates where the veteran intends to lead the young, powerful Bucks this year.

THAT ISN'T a dwarf walking behind Lew Alcindor, who is seven foot something, but a game referee who is probably 6'1. Lew isn't the dormant giant he seems to be here, and if he picks up where he left off in last year's NBA playoffs, the sky's the limit.

Athletic hall of fame to add Komives, Sat.

Detroit Piston Guard Howard Komives and three other outstanding former Bowling Green athletes will be inducted into the Falcons' Athletic hall of Fame Saturday during BG's Homecoming football game with Kent State.

Joining Komives as the newest members of the Hall of Fame will be James Knierim, basketball coach at Toledo Woodward High School and 12-letter winner in football, basketball, and baseball at Bowling Green; Gary LaRise, three-time All-American swimmer who is now a manufacturer's representative in Detroit; and David Martin, associate director of the Ohio Schoolboard Association in Columbus who was a three-sport performer for the Falcons in the 1940's.

Komives won All-American basketball honors in 1964 as he led the nation in scoring with a 36.7 average. The 6-1 flashy guard also set a national consecutive free throw mark of 50 as a senior in addition to posting (at that time) the fourth best scoring average in the history of collegiate basketball.

"Butch" captained the Falcons as a senior and easily won All-Mid-American conference honors. While at Bowling Green he established 24 school records in addition to five conference marks. His top record at BG is 1,834 points in a career.

Knierim was an outstanding all-around athlete for the Falcons from 1944 through 1947. Football brought him All-Ohio honors as an end and co-captain recognition. He started four years as a basketball guard and played on three different NIT teams. Coach Harold Anderson considered him one of the finest defensive players of his era. In baseball, he played third base for four years.

LaRise is the only Bowling Green swimmer ever to place among the top six finishers in three NCAA meets. From 1960 to 1962, he placed fourth, fifth, and tied for fifth in the 50-yard freestyle to win All-American honors. He is the only Mid-American Conference swimmer ever to win two events in three MAC meets.

Martin, a native of West Salem, played guard, tackle and fullback over three seasons on the 1941, 1942, and 1946 BG football teams. He was considered one of the top defensive players of his time. He also lettered in wrestling and baseball for the Falcons.

Martin is well known in Ohio high school coaching circles. At Oak Harbor, his football record was 53-21-3.

Football tickets

No student tickets will be sold at the gates Saturday for the Homecoming game with Kent State, so it is urged that students planning to attend, purchase tickets now.

The ticket office at Memorial Hall will be open Saturday morning from 8-11 a.m. in addition to its regular hours of 8-12 and 1-5 during the week.

Ticket prices are $3 for guests, $1.50 for students and $3 for a coupon book, granting admission to all home football and basketball games.

Orioles take third in row

BALTIMORE (AP) - Pitcher Dave McNally climaxed a long ball barrage by ripping a grand slam home run and the Baltimore Orioles buried the Cincinnati Reds 9-3 yesterday for a 3-0 lead in the World Series.

McNally, who survived nine Cincinnati hits to go the distance, became the first pitcher in history to hit a Series slam when he unloaded in the sixth inning for an 8-1 bulge.
